Hi Nick,

I thought I would loop you in on this since it looks like SoloPower still has an active pretreatment permit.

Jay Collins with DEQ hazardous waste may follow-up with you to see if you have any information regarding what is still onsite inside.

Jay, Nick's phone number is [REDACTED]

I have a call into the property owner's consultant [REDACTED] at Tetrattech to set up a time to inspect the facility. [REDACTED] was dealing with HW SoloPower had left when they (presumably) closed. [REDACTED] has not gotten back to me. That was next up on my call list this afternoon.

I spoke with Christine before reaching out again to consultant. She asked me to call Stacey at BES about industrial 1200Z stormwater concerns. That is next.

I will forward HW's email chain including [REDACTED] info to Christine and Stacey and stay in touch with WQ moving forward.

Jay

There are concerns about waste disposal. Jay has been working with the owner and consultant.

All- Please see below. Before I dive into the details as it relates to stormwater, are there any other programs that have outstanding regulatory/financial requirements for SoloPower that I should coordinate with?

Thanks-
Christine

Hi Jenni,

We have a 1200-Z permitted facility that is out of business but we have been unsuccessful in getting them to fill out a permit termination form. Based on this article – we are not the only ones they refuse to deal with...https://www.oregonlive.com/business/index.ssf/2018/08/state_agency_kept_shoveling_mo.html

Do you know if DEQ has a protocol for dealing with this? Their permit assignment documents are attached. All mail we send gets returned and based on our inspection last year the site is no longer occupied. They currently have a monitoring waiver for being an inactive unstaffed site with no industrial materials/activities exposed to stormwater.

I thought I would start with you on this but please let me know if I should start with someone else.

Thanks,
